Profile

Kristin Russell has been involved in the ongoing research and development of the Wheelchair Skills Program in Halifax, NS. She has also been involved in learning opportunities for Occupational Therapy students at Dalhousie University. Kristin works full time as an inpatient Occupational Therapist at the Nova Scotia Rehabilitation Centre with clients who are experiencing various conditions, including amputations, strokes, and poly-trauma injuries. Her interest in the Wheelchair Skills Program stems from the benefits it offers many of her clients who use wheelchairs for functional mobility and daily activities.

Education

- Bachelor of Kinesiology (Acadia University)
- Masters of Science in Occupational Therapy (Dalhousie University)
